When you arrive to the Maritime Museum, you will find the toilets on the ground floor near the entrance. There are interactive exhibits to explore in each room. You can look around in your own time.

The Maritime Museum is by the harbour. Look out for the ship’s figurehead above the entrance!

Useful places:
- TOILETS: On the ground floor near the entrance.
- FIRST FLOOR: There are interactive exhibits to explore in each room. You can look around in your own time.
- BALCONY: There is a balcony where you can look down on the lower level of the museum.
- Staff will welcome you when you arrive and provide information while you buy your ticket.
- You start the visit by going up to the first floor by stairs or lift.
- Look out for the aquarium filled with knitted fish!
- On the way down the slope to the ground floor you can see paintings and photographs on the wall. You can open the small wooden boxes to see objects inside.
- You can walk on the deck of a replica ship.
- You can borrow a dressing up costume if you want.
You can follow a ship as it travels around the big globe.

There is a beach hut with lots of hidden interactive models.

The ship’s cabin is a small space which creates a rocking motion so you can see and feel what it would be like on board a ship. You can get out at any time if you don’t like it!

Don’t try this exhibit if you don’t like strange smells!

In the final room, there are books and activities. There is also a small cinema showing underwater films.

The next gallery tells the story of a small boat called the Diana.

Some of the exhibits make a lot of noise.

You can choose to watch videos about Jersey’s coastal trades.

This is located at the Maritime Museum and tells the story of the German Occupation in the Second World War through a series of tapestries and a film.

If you want you can buy something from the shop before you leave.